

Dear Friend,

The first time that I was introduced to the ONE SHOT, it was from my girl friend. She told me about how good this product was, it will save us 10% on fuel and it will increase the power in the van. I laughed at her. Do you really think that there will be a difference in the van, I don't think so? One day we stopped over at Allan's and she told me that Allan asked for me to check his exhaust pipe to see how clean it was compared to ours. I told her no I am not going to check it. So she went out and put her finger in the pipe, and went to our van and did the same. She came back in the van and she showed me the difference. Well there was quite a difference in the colour; it was really black in ours and nothing in Allan's. But I was still not convinced that it works.

In the middle of the week I asked her if she gassed up the van again? She said no, we are on the same tank of gas. Then I noticed quite a difference in the performance of the van. But I told her that I am not really convinced yet. I will see when we go to Campbellton if it will make a difference or not. (Campbellton being 250Km of highway driving) Well we went to Campbellton and it only took little over 1/4 tank of gas and normally it would take at least 1/2 tank of gas. That is when I was really convinced that this product really works. We own a 1993 Dodge Caravan 3.0 littler.
